Introduction

The Utah Division of Arts & Museums acts as a state coordinator and advisor on topics of importance to the arts and museums communities. The Division conducts programs that provide more than 500 outreach services — including financial assistance — to schools, local arts councils, organizations, community centers, performing groups and individual artists.

This annual report for fiscal year 2011 highlights just some of the year's accomplishments, provides a financial summary, and gives a sampling of activities and programs supported through the Division.

Utah Arts & Museums offers special thanks for support from the Utah State Legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Arts Education

The Arts Education program places a priority on professional development in the arts for Utah educators. This focus results in an amazing return on investment as teachers and principals apply what they learned, guided by professional artists, to their daily practice as they teach kids dance, music, theatre and visual arts. The more knowledgeable about the artistic discipline teachers are, the more their students benefit as learners capable of integrating the arts into overall academic achievement.

Any school receiving Arts Education funding is required to incorporate a professional development component for teachers. At Garland Elementary, all teachers and the principal learned alongside their students and enjoyed additional time as a faculty working with Beverly Mangham, an assemblage artist from Texas. They learned about constructing engaging visual pieces by reusing and recycling materials, a terrific idea when schools have limited funding.

Iron County School District receives grants specifically for professional development. Each year, teachers and principals attend arts workshops where they can explore, in depth, a specific art form and develop skills to teach and integrate the art form. This year they worked with Karen De Mauro, an actress/director/playwright from New York City, learning to use theatre as a tool to teach language arts. One teacher said, “All the world is a stage, and I want my students to create their own ‘life’ scripts.”

Poetry Out Loud

The Division conducted its sixth annual Poetry Out Loud Program, a national poetry recitation contest sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation. The Utah State Poetry Out Loud Finals Contest was held at the Rose Wagner Performing Arts Center in Salt Lake City on Thursday, March 14, 2011, at 7 p.m. with students from 10 high schools participating.

Top honors went to Shannon McCullam, a junior at Box Elder High School in Brigham City. She received $200 and an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., where she competed in the national finals in April 2011. Her school also received a $500 stipend for the purchase of poetry books. First runner-up was Alyssa Hall, a senior at North Sanpete High School in Mt. Pleasant; second runner-up was Samara Wells, a senior at Monticello High School.

Mountain West Arts Conference

Keynote Speaker Chris Abani

The Mountain West Arts Conference is a region-wide gathering that provides opportunities for innovation, networking and professional development. The conference is designed to help individuals and organizations in the arts community access essential resources and create community connections throughout Utah and the Mountain West.

The 2011 Mountain West Arts Conference was held May 5, 2011 at the Utah Cultural Celebration Center. Keynote speaker, poet and author Chris Abani spoke on “Stories of Struggle, Stories of Hope: Art, Politics and Human Rights.” Imprisoned by the Nigerian government as a teenager for his writings, Abani is one of the most admired novelists in the world today. He is an evocative speaker whose talks — near musical in their fluidity, heartbreak and joy — mix the personal and the political. His luminous and funny insights are a vital statement on the redemptive power of art to battle tyranny and to remind us of our common humanity. Abani is the recipient of the PEN Freedom-to-Write Award and many other prizes. He is currently a professor at the University of California, Riverside.

Conference workshops included “Coaxing the Muse: Habits for Creativity and Collaboration,” “Refining Your Elevator Speech: 30 Seconds to Pitch Your Vision,” “Fractured Atlas: Make Art, Speak Business,” “Tectonic Shifts: Major Trends Altering the Arts Landscape,” “Illuminate Yourself,” “Why Can’t They See It My Way? The Three Rivers of Conflict Management,” “Stop Advocating Like It’s 1965,” “The Writerly-Life.com,” “Major Gifts: A Major Fundraising Opportunity,” and “The Art of Creation.”

Museum Services

The Office of Museum Services was established in 1993 to improve the ability of museums to care for and manage collections, administer museum grants, advise local governments regarding museum projects, advise on capital projects, provide museums with technical assistance, undertake scholarly research and identify museum needs. Utah's 250 museums are diverse. The subjects and collections of the 79 museums that responded to our 2010 museum survey included air and space, aquarium, art, botanical garden, nature center, children and youth, Daughters of the Utah Pioneers, history, live collections and zoos, military, natural history, planetarium, and science and technology.

In 2011 the Division began a partnership with Utah State University's Department of Anthropology and Regional Campus and Distance Education to provide eight university-level distance education courses to museum professionals and volunteers. Participants who take four courses in museum administration, education and interpretation and collections care will earn a Certificate of Museum Practice recognized by Utah Arts & Museums and the Utah Museums Association. Fourteen professionals were enrolled in Museum Fund Development or Museum Exhibition at the launch of the program spring semester, six through Utah Arts & Museums scholarships. Professionals were paired with university students to complete projects, including: developing a capital campaign for a new building; writing grants for collection inventory, new museum operations and staff support; planning major renovation of an outdoor learning-through-play space; designing new exhibitions; designing exhibitions for new spaces; and bilingual expansion of a permanent exhibition to attract new audiences.

Community Outreach

Community Outreach provides technical assistance to artists, professionals, arts agencies and municipalities throughout Utah to promote and expand arts and culture. Division staff members organize events, hold trainings, collect and disseminate research and provide assistance in areas such as advocacy, fundraising, best practices and sound management, nonprofit organizational and board development, rural and community arts, and cultural planning. Staff members work with performing artists and local arts agencies to strengthen Utah's creative infrastructure and invest in the state's creative leadership through the Change Leader professional development program. Events throughout the year bring constituents together to learn best practices and build strong networks.

Professional education

Change Leader Program

The Change Leader Program is a professional development course with an active network of course graduates. Participants attend a three-day institute with instruction on assessing environments and the communication and facilitation skills necessary to implement change. Following the institute, Change Leaders practice these skills by completing a certification project. These certified Change Leaders form a network of leaders that mentor each other and convene through leadership circles and conferences. Nineteen Change Leaders certified in FY11:

- Lisa Duskin-Goede, Logan, Cache County
- Rachel Hedman, Layton, Davis County
- Victoria Panella Bourns, Salt Lake City, Salt Lake County
- Craig Fetzer, St. George, Washington County
- Lela Bartholomew, American Fork, Utah County
- Melanie Marsh, American Fork, Utah County
- Annette Johnson, Fillmore, Millard County
- Abe Johnson, Fillmore, Millard County
- Bobbi Wan-kier, St. George, Washington County

Random Acts of Art

In FY11, the Division instituted quick-turnaround, small-award funding to help artists create community change. Through Random Acts of Art led by Change Leaders in FY11:

- Children in Cache Valley launched a season of Greening the Arts by turning trash into upcycled musical instruments, rehearsing a junk jam with a local musician and performing at a Gallery Walk.
- Weber Arts Council and the City of South Ogden invited artists to propose transformative artwork to beautify two landmark million-gallon water tanks. The call for entries yielded 28 proposals.
- Storytellers and writers collaborated on a fundraiser community meal and cookbook featuring readings and recipes from stories about food. Proceeds went to the Road Home to help families cope with homelessness.
- A temporary knitted public art installation (graffiti knitting) in Washington Square Park during the Utah Arts Festival went viral, gaining national media attention. Knitting and crocheting lessons at the Road Home Women's Shelter and a series of community knit-ins led up to the event, which featured a sweater for a mini-Cooper car.
- Youth in West Valley City explored solutions to bullying through discussion and improvisation with Djembe African drums.
- Artists helped those attending Logan's Summerfest Arts Faire create a large statue from cast-off items. Covered with papier-mâché and painted in bright colors, the sculpture was a popular attraction during the three-day arts festival.
- College students mentored six high school students at risk for non-graduation, engaging the students' interest in visual arts, music and film. All of the participants not only graduated from high school, but enrolled in college.
- At-risk youth in Gunnison will engage in their communities and gain marketable skills by participating in conscious-speaking workshops and training to work as historical interpreters.
- An exhibition was displayed at the Kane County Hospital to provide a respite for patients and their families, and to introduce new audiences to art in a public space.

Free Night of Theater

Utah Arts & Museums, in partnership with NowPlayingUtah.com, brought New York City-based Theatre Communications Group's national Free Night of Theatre back to Utah in October 2010. Ten Utah theatres from across the state offered pairs of tickets free to first-time attendees as part of this successful national program.

Theatre Communications Group (TCG), the national organization for the not-for-profit American theatre, developed this innovative national audience development initiative to attract new audiences and raise public awareness about live theatre. The program provides a unique opportunity for theatres nationwide to collaborate on a project that provides access for new audiences to experience the joy of theatre for the first time.

Participating Utah theatres included Salt Lake Acting Company, Tuacahn Amphitheatre, Odyssey Dance, The Grand Theatre, Pinnacle Acting Company, Plan B Theatre Company, Utah Shakespeare Festival, Pygmalion Productions, Draper Historic Theatre and Covey Center for the Arts.

Traveling Exhibition Program

In FY11, Utah's Traveling Exhibition Program (TEP) traveled to 58 venues, installing 76 exhibitions. Division staff took art to libraries, schools, community centers and arts events.

The program includes exhibitions from the State Fine Art Collection, but also partners with several organizations in Utah to travel artwork by their featured artists. One of these is the Utah Watercolor Society. TEP has partnered with UWS since 1986 by attending their Spring Member Show and curating work from that exhibition to travel with the program. Not only do students and visitors from all over Utah get to see quality artwork from talented watercolorists, the artists get to showcase their work to a much larger audience than those who were able to attend the annual UWS show. TEP also partners with the Springville Museum of Art, Hogle Zoo, Utah State Fair, Saltgrass Printmakers and Salt Lake 7, a photographers' collective.

Design Arts

The Division's Design Arts services are dedicated to the promotion of excellence in the diverse fields of design in Utah. We strive to help the citizens of Utah see, experience, use and value the art of design that surrounds us daily.

The design arts include but are not limited to architecture, landscape architecture, community design, environmental design (interior, lighting, etc.), product design (fashion, furniture, transportation, electronics, etc.) and industrial design.

The Division annually coordinates and sponsors a juried exhibition of Utah designers from a wide variety of fields. In 2011, Stuart Karten reviewed 16 Utah designers' 31 projects. Thirteen projects were selected for inclusion in the annual celebration and promotion of Utah design. This review and exhibition provides opportunities for Utah's designers to have their work viewed by professionals in the field and to exhibit their work in venues outside the norm for the field of design. This exhibition exposes Utahns to the talent of Utah designers and demonstrates the contributions these individuals make to our quality of life and economy.

The juror, Stuart Karten, founded design and innovation consultancy Stuart Karten Design (SKD) in 1984 with the goal of "connecting creativity and commerce," helping companies develop award-winning products that achieve measurable business results. Karten and his team of 25 designers, researchers and engineers have completed a diverse range of projects for Fortune 500 clients in the medical device, consumer electronics, transportation and housewares industries.

Public Art

The Division's Public Art Program commissions artists from Utah and nationwide to create site-specific art in and around the public spaces of state facilities throughout Utah. This art, created by artists in collaboration with the community and the facility for which it is being created, enhances and helps build economically healthy and beautiful communities in Utah. These site-specific artworks, commissioned by the Division and chosen by community-based selection committees, can take the form of architecturally incorporated elements, landscape design, glass, textile, painting and/or sculpture. The Division is working to build and add to the quality public art collection belonging to the citizens of Utah.

In addition to the continuing maintenance of the 240 artworks in the collection, in FY11 the Division began, continued or completed public art projects for:

- University of Utah, Marriott School of Business, Salt Lake City
- Snow College Library, Ephraim
- USTAR Innovation Center/University of Utah, Salt Lake City
- USTAR Innovation Center/Utah State University, Logan
- Salt Lake Community College New Media Center, Salt Lake City
- Natural History Museum of Utah, Salt Lake City
- Ogden Weber Applied Technology College, Ogden

Statewide Annual Competition and Exhibition

Visual arts competitions and exhibitions have been a project of the state since 1899, providing juried exhibitions open to all Utah artists over the age of 18. The Statewide Annual Competition and Exhibition provides exposure to both new and established Utah artists through public display, publicity and publication of catalogues. The Statewide Annual focuses on various disciplines, rotating categories in a three-year cycle: painting and sculpture; fine crafts and photography; and mixed media and works on paper.

FY2011, mixed media and works on paper, saw submissions from 118 Utah artists. Our guest jurors, Elizabeth Dove and Michael Sarich, selected 54 pieces by 43 artists. Elizabeth Dove is a printmaker and photographer working in traditional techniques, but expanding media to include earthworks and site-specific sculpture. She teaches at the University of Montana, Missoula. Michael Sarich works in a variety of media, including printmaking, painting, ceramics and sculpture. He is an associate professor of art at the University of Nevada, Reno.

Six artists received cash awards: Nolan P. Baumgartner, Sandy Brunvand, Fidalis Buehler, Joe Norman, James M. Rees and Andrew E. Rice. The jurors commended the submissions, stating, "We are particularly appreciative of the absence of a dominant voice, genre, media or approach, and congratulate all artists who submitted work for maintaining their own vision that contributes to this vital diversity."

Rio Gallery

In March and April of 2011, the Rio Gallery hosted an exhibition called “Homage.” It was curated by Namon Bills, a local artist who proposed this exhibition to the gallery manager as a way for artists to honor those who inspired them. “Art does not exist in a vacuum,” explained Bills. “Every creative spark has a source — or sometimes many sources. Each of the participating artists was invited to select an individual who has influenced their work, to whom they would like to pay tribute. The pieces in the show are not copies of existing artworks, but rather each artist's homage to this person's influence in their life and work. The people selected as influences range from icons of art history, to art professors and teachers; they include writers and, in one case, the artist's father.” The Rio Gallery hosted a public reception for the show on Friday, March 18, with close to 300 individuals in attendance.

Fellowship Recipients

Fellowships are available for individual artists practicing crafts, painting, drawing, printmaking, photography, sculpture, artist's bookmaking, and working in new genres such as conceptual arts and video. Applying artists must demonstrate professionalism in their art through quality images and documentation. Artists must be Utah residents not enrolled in a degree- or certificate-granting program. There were 80 applicants from across the state for the fellowship in FY11.

Our juror, Kristen Evangelista of the San Jose Museum of Art, selected Kathy Puzey of Logan and Alison Denyer of Salt Lake City as our fellowship recipients. Each artist received $10,000 and participated in a short documentary video produced by the Division in association with 15 Bytes, a non-profit arts magazine. 15 Bytes conducted the interviews and directed and edited the videos under the guidance of Division staffer Laura Durham.

Acquisitions

Continuing the tradition of supporting Utah artists by purchasing artwork from acclaimed artists, the Division purchased 13 works in 2011, including the following three:

- “Robe (no 4),” by Ron Richmond, purchased from the artist after the piece was juried into and exhibited at the Statewide Annual Exhibition.
- “Teasdale (November),” by Michael Workman, installed at the State Capitol shortly after it was purchased by the Division in 2011. This large work hangs on the 4th floor of the Capitol, where state legislators and Capitol visitors can see and enjoy it.
- “Wales Cabin,” by Ella Peacock, a small landscape painting with an unfinished “verso,” a painting on its reverse side. This work, probably completed about 1990, sits inside a frame that was handmade by the artist.

Creative vitality

Creative Vitality Index

The Creative Vitality Index (CVI) is an annual measure of the economic health of the arts-related creative economy in Utah. In the CVI, the creative economy is defined as including for-profit and nonprofit arts-related creative enterprises, and the key support and service activities that sustain them. The CVI draws data from two major data partners: the Urban Institute's National Center for Charitable Statistics, and Economic Modeling Specialists, Inc. (EMIS). The baseline score for the Creative Vitality Index is 1.00; this is the national score using the same data streams used locally. A region's score reflects a value relative to this national baseline; a score of 1.00 or greater means the area has a relatively strong arts sector.

In 2011, data indicated that there were 45,582 jobs in arts-related occupations in Utah as measured by the CVI. The 2011 index value indicates that Utah has a higher concentration of creative employment than the nation as a whole, with an index value of 1.06.

Other highlights:

- Utah outperformed the nation on a per capita basis in two of the eight categories measured by the CVI: creative jobs and music store sales
- The CVI identified 249 arts-related organizations in Utah
- Utah generated more than $140 million in nonprofit arts and arts-active revenues
- The CVI recorded 45,582 people employed in highly creative occupations
- From 2010 to 2011, Utah gained 3,980 creative jobs at a rate of 9.57%. Utah outperformed the nation in creative occupations with an index of 1.06
- All of Utah's Economic Service Areas (ESAs) experienced significant increases in the number of jobs linked to the creative economy
- The Central Utah and Southeast ESAs experienced significant increases in their CVI values between 2010 and 2011
- Independent artists generated the most revenue of all the creative industries in Utah in 2011
- Music store sales had the strongest 2011 industry CVI value in Utah: 1.16
